ART SHOW CELEBRATES CREATIVE ACHIEVEMENTS OF CHILDREN WITH SPECIAL NEEDS

National organization selects children of Kennedy Krieger Institute as featured artists for special exhibit and fundraiser

A unique art concept comes to Baltimore on Thursday, May 10, with The Art of Unlocking Potential, an exhibit featuring artwork created by the patients and students of Kennedy Krieger Institute and presented by Bear Givers, in association with the Living Classrooms Foundation. Following the opening reception on May 10th in the Herbert Bearman Community Art Gallery at Frederick Douglass-Isaac Myers Maritime Park, the exhibit will continue until May 31. All artwork is for sale and funds raised will benefit Baltimore's Kennedy Krieger Institute, dedicated to improving the lives of children with developmental and physical disabilities.

The Art of Unlocking Potential exhibit is a part of the EmpowerArt Program created by Bear Givers, a New York-based organization that provides children in need with opportunities to feel the pride and joy of engaging in acts of kindness and generosity. The EmpowerArt Program enables children with special needs to express their creativity in art shows that benefit their schools, hospitals, and programs.

During the event, guests will be able to peruse artwork while enjoying food and refreshments. Some of the artists will also be on hand to discuss their work with attendees.

"We are very proud to host this empowering event for Kennedy Krieger institute and we are extremely grateful to Richard and Mary Fink and family, and Koch Industries, Inc., for making this event possible," says Joseph Sprung, founder of Bear Givers.

"We are proud to be partnering with Kennedy Krieger Institute and Bear Givers for The Art of Unlocking Potential exhibit," says Richard Fink, the event sponsor. "Kennedy Krieger is a true leader in serving children with special needs who often feel a great sense of isolation. This exhibition will give the children an exceptional sense of accomplishment and confidence."
